

George Washington

by Kathleen Wiley

George Washington was a rich young man who went to war for King George.
He fought the French and the Indians in the great French and Indian War.

FIRST CHORUS:

George Washington, George Washington, a man who never told a lie.
George Washington, George Washington, for honor he was willing to die.
For truth and honor he would die.

But then King George tried to tax our land, and the Colonies broke away.
The Boston Tea Party was the thing that started a war that day. (repeat first chorus)

We chose him to be our first General when our country first went to war.
A revolution for freedom began and a nation began to soar. (repeat first chorus)

Though he never smiles in the pictures we see, he has a big heart underneath.
The secret we know is that Paul Revere made a set of George's wooden teeth! (repeat first chorus)

When George became our first President, America the nation was formed.
We need to remember his stalwart ways and how and why our nation was born. (last chorus)

LAST CHORUS:

George Washington, George Washington, a man who never told a lie.
George Washington. George Washington, for honor he was willing to die.
For truth and honor he would die.
And we should all remember why.
